Air Force Homosexuals Go After Christians

Posted on October 2, 2013 by Tad Cronn Filed under Christianity, Corruption, Email Featured, Government, Homosexuality, Liberal Bullying, Military, National Security, Religion

The acceptance of open homosexuals in the military is increasingly having the effect that many conservatives anticipated, as Christians and anyone who opposes homosexual "marriage" are finding that they are being punished for their views.

A group of airmen from Lackland Air Force Base recently attended a packed meeting at Village Parkway Baptist Church in San Antonio, where they expressed concerns about a rise in intimidation and persecution from homosexual commanders and their supporters, according to Fox News.

Pastor Steve Branson heard from at least 80 airmen about religious persecution going on at Lackland.

"There is an atmosphere of intimidation at Lackland Air Force Base," Branson said. "Gay commanders and officers are pushing their agenda on the airmen. There is a culture of fear in the military and it's gone to a new level with the issue of homosexuality."

One of the meeting's attendees was Senior Master Sgt. Phillip Monk, who claims he was relieved of duty after refusing his commander's order to say he supported homosexual marriage.

After filing a religious discrimination complaint against the Air Force, Monk was accused of making false statements and is now facing a possible court martial.

According to Branson, other airmen have told him they are afraid to speak out publicly because of what is happening to Monk.

Branson relates the story of one airman who was told that even thinking homosexuality is a sin is discrimination: "A commander told him, 'Don't you understand discrimination – that your thought process is discrimination?' The commander actually pulled up the definition of discrimination on Wikipedia and read it to him in front of everyone so he would understand what it was."

The parent of an airman at the meeting said that the 19-year-old was asked during basic training what religion he was. When the young airman said "Christian," he was required to retake basic training.

One airman claimed he was written up for having his Bible out, while a nearby Muslim airman had out a prayer rug.

Branson said a colonel told him that officers are being ordered to publicly affirm support for homosexuality and being Mirandized if they don't.

The Obama Administration has been an enemy of Bible-believing Christians since it came into office, issuing warnings through the Department of Homeland Security about the potential terrorist threat of conservatives. Obama himself, before he was elected, revealed his contempt when he complained about people "bitterly clinging to their guns and Bibles."

The persecution of Christians in the Air Force and other branches of the military should serve as a warning. If the Administration goes after religious rights in the military, it will go after yours as well, as has been borne out repeatedly.

The state of affairs in the Air Force should be regarded as foreshadowing.

There is a purge going on. Historically, governments have purged bureaucracies and militaries of undesirables in order to create weapons to use against their own people.

The current effort is aimed at controlling, breaking the spirit of and, if necessary, expelling those with a moral conscience. The only goal can be to create a military that won't care if it is ordered to engage in unethical behavior.

We don't have to look very far for actual examples of how such "ethically refined" armies have been used. Take your pick: Nazi Germany, Soviet Russia, Communist China, Vietnam, Iran, etc.

There is no good purpose that can come of this military purge, and frankly none is intended.

"The U.S. military has furloughed as many as 50 Catholic chaplains due to the partial suspension of government services, banning them from celebrating weekend Mass. At least one chaplain was told that if he engaged in any ministry activity, he would be subjected to disciplinary action. "In very practical terms it means Sunday Mass won't be offered," Archbishop Timothy Broglio of the Archdiocese for the Military Services told me. "If someone has a baptism scheduled, it won't be celebrated.""

After one group of veterans went around the barricade, "the park ranger told them the wall was closed," NBC's Mark Seagraves reported. "Later another group of vets showed up and moved the barricades. At that point, the memorial filled with vets and tourists. That's when police came and moved everyone out." The Vietnam Veterans Memorial Wall is a black granite outdoor wall on which the names of the 58,272 service members who died or were unaccounted for during the Vietnam War are inscribed. It takes more manpower and costs the government more money to close down an outdoor wall than to let people walk past it and pay their respects."

<http://www.breitbart.com/Big-Government/2013/10/04/Exclusive-Pisgah-Inn-NPS> Excerpt:

"Pisgah Inn receives no federal money, and according to owner Bruce O'Connell, who spoke exclusively to Breitbart News, "All we do is pay the government money. We don't take anything from them." It is located on the Blue Ridge Parkway, which was deemed a thoroughway and therefore left open by the National Parks Service. Nonetheless, earlier this week, the NPS moved to shut it down. Michael Litterst, chief spokesman for the Park Service, said, "We do not believe it is appropriate or feasible to have some parts of the system open while others are closed to the public." As O'Connell spoke with Breitbart News on Friday morning, he could see the rangers turning away those hoping to visit the Inn. "They're out there with lights flashing right now blocking access to our parking lots," O'Connell said. "They have rangers at all of our gates. They're turning away our customers. They have rangers out there with yellow vests saying access is restricted... There's an intimidation factor going on, no doubt about it."

<http://www.breitbart.com/Big-Government/2013/10/05/Feds-Try-to-Close-the-OCEAN-Because-of-Shutdown> And add the ocean. I have come to the conclusion that the NPS should be written out of any CR. They obviously have more funds than they need. Introductory words:

“Just before the weekend, the National Park Service informed charter boat captains in Florida that the Florida Bay was "closed" due to the shutdown. Until government funding is restored, the fishing boats are prohibited from taking anglers into 1,100 square-miles of open ocean. Fishing is also prohibited at Biscayne National Park during the shutdown. The Park Service will also have rangers on duty to police the ban... of access to an ocean. The government will probably use more personnel and spend more resources to attempt to close the ocean, than it would in its normal course of business. This is governing by temper-tantrum. It is on par with the government's ham-fisted attempts to close the DC WWII Memorial, an open-air public monument that is normally accessible 24 hours a day. By accessible I mean, you walk up to it. When you have finished reflecting, you then walk away from it.”

<http://news.heartland.org/newspaper-article/2013/10/04/no-crime-committed-feds-seize-bank-account-anyway> Introductory words:

“Can the government use civil forfeiture to take your money when you have done nothing wrong—and then pocket the proceeds? That is the question to be answered by a major federal lawsuit that has been filed by Terry and Sandy Dehko—owners of Schott's Market, a family grocery store in Fraser, Mich.—and the Institute for Justice. In January 2013, the Dehkos were astonished to discover the federal government had seized their entire checking account without warning, even though the Dehkos did nothing wrong. “Federal forfeiture law allows the government to take your entire bank account just because it doesn't like the way you deposit or withdraw your money,” said IJ Senior Attorney Clark Neily. “The government should not be allowed to just show up at your doorstep like a playground bully and take away your milk money. But that's exactly what the government did to Terry and Sandy.””

“The next screen said I would need to verify my identity before I could “create a Marketplace account and complete an application.” And unfortunately, the only way to compare plans and check the rates is to “create an account and complete an application.” Back in August I had attended a meeting that the Department of Health and Human services held in Cleveland to talk about the impending healthcare “Marketplace” in Ohio. There, I learned that the federal exchanges were going to “ping” the Department of Homeland Security and the IRS, but they never mentioned that the website would also connect with my credit report.

You'll be asked questions based on information in your credit report.

You'll answer from a list of possible choices.

Your information will be compared with information in your credit report.

But do not despair, Big Brother will fix it: <http://www.breitbart.com/Big-Government/2013/10/04/Obama-website-called-repairs>

Introductory words:

“Like a flaming Chevy Volt brought back to the shop for repairs, the Obamacare federal health insurance exchange website has now been recalled. The application part of the site, healthcare.gov, will be taken down during off-hours over the weekend, and will be unavailable for public use – which does not truly differentiate it from its current status.”

<http://www.zerohedge.com/news/2013-09-25/wal-mart-nails-consumer-recovery-coffin-shut> So much for Obama Rex's “recovery.” How long is it going to take ObamaCare sticker shock to really hit home? A bit disjointed set of information, nothing easily excerpted except this:

“Wal-Mart Stores Inc. is cutting orders it places with suppliers this quarter and next to address rising inventories the company flagged in last month's earnings report. U.S. inventory growth at Wal-Mart outstripped sales gains in the second quarter at a faster rate than at the retailer's biggest rivals. Merchandise has been piling up because consumers have been spending less freely than Wal-Mart projected.”

Very interesting info!!!! Oh! You didn't know he had a military career?

Bill & Hillary got about $12 million for their yet-to-be written memoirs.

Here's some help for them since their memories are getting old.

BILL CLINTON'S MILITARY CAREER

Bill Clinton registers for the draft on September 08, 1964, accepting all contractual conditions of registering for the draft. Selective Service Number is 326 46 228.

Bill Clinton classified 2-S on November 17, 1964.

Bill Clinton reclassified 1-A on March 20, 1968.

Bill Clinton ordered to report for induction on July 28, 1969.

Bill Clinton refuses to report and is not inducted into the military.

Bill Clinton reclassified 1-D after enlisting in the United States Army Reserves on August 07, 1969, under authority of COL. E. Holmes.

Clinton signs enlistment papers and takes oath of enlistment.

Bill Clinton fails to report to his duty station at the University of Arkansas ROTC, Sept 1969.

Bill Clinton reclassified 1-A on October 30, 1969, as enlistment with Army Reserves is revoked by Colonel E. Holmes and Clinton now AWOL and subject to arrest under Public Law 90-40 (2) (a) registrant who has failed to report...remain liable for induction.

Bill Clinton's birth date lottery number is 311, drawn December 1, 1969, but anyone who has already been ordered to report for induction is INELIGIBLE!

Bill Clinton runs for Congress (1974), while a fugitive from justice under Public Law 90-40.

Bill Clinton runs for Arkansas Attorney General (1976), while a fugitive from justice.

Bill Clinton receives pardon on January 21, 1977, from President Carter.

Bill Clinton becomes the FIRST PARDONED FEDERAL FELON ever to serve as President of the United States.

All these facts come from Freedom of Information requests, public laws, and various books that have been published, and have not been refuted by Clinton.

After the 1993 World Trade Center bombing, President Clinton promised that those responsible would be hunted down and punished.

After the 1995 bombing in Saudi Arabia, which killed five U.S. military personnel, Clinton promised that those responsible would be hunted down and punished.

After the 1996 Khobar Towers bombing in Saudi Arabia, which killed 19 & injured 200 US military personnel, Clinton promised that those responsible would be hunted down and punished.

After the 1998 bombing of U.S. embassies in Africa, which killed 224 and injured 5,000, Clinton promised that those responsible would be hunted down and punished.

After the 2000 bombing of the USS Cole, which killed 17 and injured 39 U.S. sailors, Clinton promised that those responsible be hunted down and punished.

Maybe if Clinton had kept those promises, an estimated 3,000 people in New York and Washington, DC who are now dead would be alive today.

THINK ABOUT IT!

It is a strange turn of events. Hillary gets $8 Million for her forthcoming memoir. Bill gets about $12 Million for his memoir yet to be written. This, from two people who spent 8 years being unable to recall anything about past events, while under oath.

Sincerely,

Cdr. Hamilton McWhorter USN (ret)

PS. Please forward this to as many people as you can! We don't want this woman to even THINK of running for President!

House passes bill to protect military freedom of religion

Posted by Darla Dawald, National Director on October 5, 2013 at 4:52pm in Patriot Action Alerts

NOTE: I notice some of your comments suggest that they did this because the military needs Congress to protect their 1st amendment right. If you click on the link for the bill, it is more descriptive:

BILL TITLE: Expressing the sense of Congress regarding the need for the continued availability of religious services to members of the Armed Forces and their families during a lapse in appropriations.

<http://clerk.house.gov/evs/2013/roll526.xml>

It simply means that they will pay for the clergy, chaplains etc... to be there and not furloughed due to the gov't shutdown. Additionally, that they cannot keep them out or arrest them for continuing to do their jobs... why? It is our right as Americans!

Darla

Friends,

As you may have seen, news came to light yesterday that the Administration was threatening some military priests and ministers with arrest for trespassing if they continued to do their jobs during the lapse in appropriations, leaving many bases without religious leaders for weekend services, weddings, baptisms, and more. This morning, we passed a bill (H. Con. Res. 58) in the House to ensure that our service members, their families, and their chaplains are able to exercise their fundamental constitutional rights. Rep. Doug Collins (R-GA), himself a former military chaplain, sponsored the bill and gave a great speech on the floor in support of it. Thank you for all of your support!

“Fiscal Cliff” put in a much better perspective!!

|--------------------|----------------------|
| U.S. Tax revenue: | $ 2,170,000,000 |
| Fed budget: | $ 3,820,000,000,000 |
| New debt: | $ 1,650,000,000,000 |
| National debt: | $14,271,000,000,000 |
| Recent budget cuts | $38,500,000,000 |

Let's not remove 8 zeros and pretend it's a household budget:

|--|-----------|
| Annual family income: | $ 21,700 |
| Money the family spent: | $ 38,200 |
| New debt on the credit card | $ 16,500 |
| Outstanding balance on the credit card | $142.710 |
| Total budget cuts so far: | $ 38.50 |
| Got it ???.....,OK now. | |

Lesson #2:

Here's another way to look at the Debt Ceiling:

Let's say, You come home from work and find there has been a sewer backup in your neighborhood

And your home has sewage all the way up to your ceilings. What do you think you should do.....?

Raise the ceilings, or remove the shit ?

Pattern for Revival

by Frank Clark

As I was reading in the book of Jonah, I noticed something that I had never noticed before. There is a God established pattern for revival in a nation. You can see it in Jonah 3:1-10. There are six things that happen here.

The first thing that happens is that God calls His prophets to proclaim His message of repentance. (v. 1-2) Second, the prophets obey God's command even when it is very costly to them. (v. 3) Next, the common people hear the word of the Lord and begin to repent. (v. 4-5) Then, word of these things reaches the nation's leadership who hear that word and repent themselves. (v. 6) Fifth, the leadership proclaims and participates in a national repentance. Last, when God sees that the nation's repentance is real, He has compassion on that nation and stops His judgment. (v. 10)

The question that came to my mind is: Is this the pattern God is following in America today? I think the evidence gives us the answer.

This nation's turning from God has been going on for some time. I can see clear indications right after WWII when we failed to publicly give God the glory and praise for that victory. From that time forward, we have the rebellion of the '60's and 70's, then the downhill slide into the moral degradation on all levels that we are experiencing today. We are deep into our sinfulness just as Nineveh was in Jonah's day.

God started calling His prophets a long time ago. In the early '70's, one was David Wilkerson. He published America's Last Call in 1974. He was immediately ridiculed, even by many Christians. However, nearly all the things he predicted have come true.

Then in the '80's there came Larry Burkett with his book The Coming Economic Earthquake. Again, he was ridiculed by most. Yet, today we are living in the condition he predicted.

In the last several years, there have been many speaking out what God has been saying. Rabbi Jonathan Cahn, Dr. Richard Land and Erwin Lutzer, just to name three from three totally different religious affiliations. I have become aware of nearly 20 such people, all dedicated believers of Jesus Christ. So, is the biblical pattern being followed?

The sin of America has long been rampant. 1. God has called his prophets. 2. They are proclaiming a message of repentance. 3. Common people are listening and repentance is spreading throughout America. 4. Some of the lower and middle levels of leadership are now beginning to hear and act. Are these folks perfect? Absolutely not! Are they moving towards God's standard of righteousness? The evidence, when compared with Scripture, suggests that they are. But, they too are being ridiculed.

The next question is will the upper leadership hear and repent? If the pattern in Jonah holds true and those who are repenting continue to persist, 2 Chronicles 7:14 seems to indicate that they will.

I want to include a word of caution here. There are cases in the Bible and in history when all of the steps towards revival occurred, but the national leadership did not hear and repent. In every case, God did judge the nation, but he also took care of those who did repent. The key seems to be whether those who are now repenting will continue to persist in their drawing close to God.

Witness what happened right after 9/11? The entire nation turned to God. But after a few months, it all died out. What will happen this time? Will we persist in our pursuit of God's righteousness or not?

LIBERALISM'S WORST NIGHTMARE

It's Worse Than You Think: Why the Administration Must Make the Shutdown Hurt

Posted By Gordan Runyan on Oct 8, 2013 | 117 Comments

The word is out, no thanks to the unmanned drones who run the "legitimate media." This administration is purposely trying to make the government shutdown as painful as possible. You've got to give them credit for creativity in this: With only 17% of the monstrosity being closed, you really have to search for ways this is hurting anybody.

Even the federal worker trotted out on NPR this morning, who has been relegated to building toy block castles with his young son during the days of furlough, will almost certainly get back pay to cover it all when it's over. His time off is not a true layoff, but paid time off, with the timing of the payment the only thing still up in the air. Not only so, but it may be a learning experience for him, as the building of temporary castles is at least the production of something, which government workers generally know nothing about. See? Silver linings everywhere.

But whence cometh this desire to make it hurt?

Sheer spite? No doubt.

Or is it the gaining of political advantage, as the pain of the shutdown will cause the unwashed masses to rise up and demand that the House of Representatives give the President everything he wants? That's a part of it, certainly.

But right here is where conservatives and Constitutionalists get bitten. We're betrayed by our own failure to think as long-term as the Marxists think. We think the present battle is the be-all and end-all of what's going on in our opponents' heads. The articles and radio talk shows that prove this assertion are legion. Conservatives are incensed because the libs are pulling a cheap, crass, and even cruel political stunt. How dare they!

Don't be fooled. It's deeper than that.

"Making sure it hurts" is the bald assertion of authority. We will, because we can, and you unelected folks out there need to be reminded of it.

Like when we were kids, assuming you were raised before civilization had evolved so high that it came up with neat, humane options like the dreaded Time Out, I remember sassing my Mom one day as we both stood at the kitchen sink. Before the final syllable of my clever comment had stopped resounding in the air, her hand shot out and lifted me a few inches off the ground with a loud smack. Lovingly, of course. But there was an unmistakable message in that staccato "Pow!" That message was, "I think you've forgotten who you are in relation to me, son. I'm going to help you recall that information."

That's what we're really supposed to hear from Daddy O and Uncle Harry when they make sure it hurts. Discipline that doesn't hurt will not be effective.

They are hoping to remind us all, even if it's subtle for now, that they are always right and we really don't get a say in the matter.

Rushdoony pointed out in his classic little work Law and Liberty that all socialistic or otherwise dictatorial governments must of necessity always be at war with some segment of its own citizenry. This is because those governments must, at all costs, protect the dictum that "the government is never wrong."

They are the elites. They know better. About everything. Whatever meager scraps of individualism and free choice they leave you with, well, you oughtta just shut up and be thankful.

So when stuff goes wrong, even as a direct result of their own policies, overweening government must blame someone else. Political opponents are handy for filling this role. (Paging Ted Cruz.) So are outspoken critics, called dissidents and disturbers of the peace.

Someone must be blamed, and that someone must be punished. A truly socialistic paradise therefore is one in which the elites are always on the warpath.

Even as I write this, Fox News is foaming at the mouth about how "unfair" it is that proponents of immigration reform are being allowed to demonstrate on federal land that is closed to everyone else, due to the shutdown. Well, of course it's unfair, but to protest about that is a grand exercise in Missing the Point.

You don't think the government knows it's being unequal in its treatment of citizens? C'mon.

You're not hearing the message, which is: Agree with Big Brother and your life will go smoothly. Disagree and you will be punished. We'll make it hurt.

Of course, the corollary to what I'm saying is this. Wage enough war against your own people and they'll begin to think of you as a foreigner, a usurper who has no right to rule anymore. Not only must a socialist government always be at war with some of its people, but it must also be in constant fear of them. Children eventually grow up, after all, and might get tired of being smacked around.

THE REAL REVO

A High Capacity Assault Blog

Posted on 9/11/13 by Jim22

We've all heard of Obama's vacations, but it is interesting to know what senator Rand Paul did during the August recess. Golfing? Martha's Vineyard? Frolicking on the beach? No. Paul spent his vacation giving free eye surgeries to low-income patients. Now I realize the president needs to rest and can't spend all of his time doing charity work. But seriously, can anyone think of anything Obama has ever done compassion-wise, that actually cost him something and wasn't on the taxpayer's dime, or some way calculated to advance his ambitions? [National Review Online] You have on blue clothes," Burke marvels.

Paul, who just moments ago was bent over Burke, looking through a microscope at her eye as he methodically and precisely moved needles and tools to remove the cataract, laughs happily. "You're seeing colors again," he warmly observes.

"Now you'll recognize him on TV," Bowers jokes to Burke about Paul.

"Oh my God," Burke repeats. "It's awesome. Oh my goodness."

Burke is one of four patients that Paul performs pro bono eye surgery on today. In recent years, Paul has done between 10 and 15 eye surgeries a year for free. "I've always done some since I've been in practice," he recounts. In 1995, Paul founded the Southern Kentucky Lions Eye Clinic, which provided free eye care for low-income people, "because I wanted to be able to give back to the community." He did free operations for locals and also for children who had come all the way from Guatemala.

You see there are "GOOD", even "GREAT" people in Congress. Probably more than you know. Rand Paul is a great Congressman and it seems he is a GREAT person in his "private life" as well. It is a shame more Congress members don't follow his example. There are many "good", and "great" people serving in Congress; however, we need to sort them out from the ones "just collecting a paycheck" or even doing harm to the Conservative cause.

Jim: "I give up! ... Oh wait, I think I got it! You mean that 65 million low-information voters who don't pay taxes and get free stuff from taxpayers and stuck us again with the most pandering, corrupt administration in American history?"

Bob: "THAT'S THE ONE!"

There is coming that day when our nation will look back and wonder what happened to our freedom and liberty!

As far as I'm concerned I'm already wondering that!! Every President has his own "Scandals, but this is way over the bar!!

Who Shut Down the Government? 10/4/2013 12:01:00 AM - Thomas Sowell

Even when it comes to something as basic, and apparently as simple and straightforward, as the question of who shut down the federal government, there are diametrically opposite answers, depending on whether you talk to Democrats or to Republicans.

There is really nothing complicated about the facts. The Republican-controlled House of Representatives voted all the money required to keep all government activities going -- except for ObamaCare. This is not a matter of opinion. You can check the Congressional Record.

As for the House of Representatives' right to grant or withhold money, that is not a matter of opinion either. You can check the Constitution of the United States. All spending bills must originate in the House of Representatives, which means that Congressmen there have a right to decide whether or not they want to spend money on a particular government activity.

Whether ObamaCare is good, bad or indifferent is a matter of opinion. But, it is a matter of fact that members of the House of Representatives have a right to make spending decisions based on their opinion.

ObamaCare is indeed "the law of the land," as its supporters keep saying, and the Supreme Court has upheld its Constitutionality.

But the whole point of having a division of powers within the federal government is that each branch can decide independently what it wants to do or not do, regardless of what the other branches do, when exercising the powers specifically granted to that branch by the Constitution.

The hundreds of thousands of government workers who have been laid off are NOT idle because the House of Representatives did not vote enough money to pay their salaries or the other expenses of their agencies -- unless they are in an agency that would administer ObamaCare.

Since we cannot read minds, we cannot say who -- if anybody -- "wants to shut down the government." But we do know who had the option to keep the government running and chose not to. The money voted by the House of Representatives covered everything that the government does, except for ObamaCare.

The Senate chose not to vote to authorize that money to be spent, because it did not include money for ObamaCare.

Senate Majority Leader Harry Reid says that he wants a "clean" bill from the House of Representatives, and some in the media keep repeating the word "clean" like a mantra. But what is unclean about not giving Harry Reid everything he wants? If Senator Reid and President Obama refuse to accept the money required to run the government, because it leaves out the money they want to run ObamaCare, that is their right. But that is also their responsibility.

You cannot blame other people for not giving you everything you want. And it is a fraud to blame them when you refuse to use the money they did vote, even when it is ample to pay for everything else in the government.

When Barack Obama keeps claiming that it is some new outrage for those who control the money to try to change government policy by granting or withholding money, that is simply a bald-faced lie. You can check the history of other examples of "legislation by appropriation" as it used to be called.

Whether legislation by appropriation is a good idea or a bad idea is a matter of opinion. But whether it is both legal and not unprecedented is a matter of fact.

Perhaps the biggest of the big lies is that the government will not be able to pay what it owes on the national debt, creating a danger of default. Tax money keeps coming into the Treasury during the shutdown, and it vastly exceeds the interest that has to be paid on the national debt.

Even if the debt ceiling is not lifted, that only means that government is not allowed to run up new debt. But that does not mean that it is unable to pay the interest on existing debt.

None of this is rocket science. But unless the Republicans get their side of the story out -- and articulation has never been their strong suit -- the lies will win. More important, the whole country will lose.

Pass this on... or just delete!!

It is because we don't always KNOW what the law is, we don't understand exactly who is responsible for what. Read this carefully and THINK about it. The SENATE is responsible for NOT doing their part. THEY are the ones who have NOT passed a BUDGET. THEY are the ones who have NOT voted on much of anything for a very long, long time!!! So, Harry Reid get off your duff and do YOUR job for a change. The House has been passing bill after bill, but when they get to the Senate Harry Reid will NOT ALLOW A VOTE. It makes me wonder IF Harry Reid is afraid some of these bills COULD, actually WOULD, pass. Then the man in the White House would be standing on his own. Why not let the President be the one to VETO? Harry Reid is the one standing in the way of the Government working as it is intended to. If there is to be a VETO, let the President be the one to do it!! Then the blame or credit will be where it belongs. When there is a hole in the road, just putting up a barricade to stop traffic DOES NOT fix the hole. Now tell me who, what, and where the working of the Government is being blocked/SHUT DOWN!!!

Dear Friend,

What are the real views of Kansans over the shutdown?

If you read most of the newspapers in Kansas, you might think that Kansans overwhelmingly support ObamaCare.

One said, "It's a done deal. It's going into effect." Essentially, we should just get over it. [Hutchinson "News"]

Another opined, "Republicans still seem to be suffering from ObamaCare Derangement Syndrome," and "it would be nuts to block help [for] hundreds of thousands of our citizens." [Wichita Eagle]

"The Republican Party shows no concern for those who can't afford health care," shouted another. [Topeka Capitol Journal]

Truly absurd arguments. But ones we all have come to expect from a mainstream media that is simply a liberal cheerleader for anything coming out of the Obama White House.

Heck, I just saw a news report claiming the failure of the ObamaCare website is proof that ObamaCare is popular-that just "proves" millions of Americans are demanding ObamaCare.

Just a few hours ago, I helped escort dozens of Kansas veterans past yards of barriers the Obama Administration erected around the WW2 Memorial. That's nothing big on my part. But it DOES send a big message about Obama and his media lackeys - they simply don't like people like you and me.

And they will do anything to make your life more difficult - if it helps them achieve their political ends. Stop death benefits for grieving military families. Threaten to default on the national debt. Lock down the national parks (unless it is for a rally of illegal immigrants demanding citizenship!). Prohibit Catholic priests and other ministers from entering military bases. Deny emergency treatments for child cancer victims. Withhold military pay. Shut down Amber alert.

At the other end, the President Golf Course is still open. Air Force One and Two are still in operation. White House Chef is still at work - as is the White House Dog Walker. Nancy Pelosi can still get carted around to speak on the Mall. Harry Reid hasn't voted on a bill in 10 days. Democrats in the House and Senate vote to keep their exclusive, gold-plated health care system. Foreign aid still being paid.

It is simply outrageous. This is a government slowdown (you may not have heard this from the media lackeys - but 83% of the Government is still open!) - a government slowdown chosen by Obama and Harry Reid. Because they believe in the Rahm Emmanuel principle - don't let any crisis go unused. Especially if you can create it yourself.

In the next few hours - days - or even weeks, you are going to see if Republicans have enough gumption to stand up to these radical tactics, and a man in the White House who is determined to "transform" America.

If we stand firm now, we can roll back ObamaCare. We can start balancing our budget. We can get our over-spending under control. We can get our economy moving again. We can become the America we are destined to be.

But it will not be hard. I fear our Republican leadership in both chambers may go south very quickly. Wobbly-kneed though they are - they seem to be standing tough at this moment. (But that changes by the minute.)

I've personally been criticized over and over for insisting we take on this battle for the future of America. The liberal newspaper editors in Kansas - all of them - are just beside themselves. For the first time in a long time, conservatives are winning the battle. And they are worried.

Rest assured, to the chagrin of the Left, I will keep the pressure on the White House, Pelosi and Reid. We cannot give in! Our country, our future, our children are too important to give up now.

And watching those veterans take in the immense Memorial they built - with their blood, sweat, tears, pain, and years of duty - I know it is all worth it. You know too.

Please keep praying for me and my entire family. Pray for wisdom for all in Washington. And pray for confusion on the Left, in the mainstream media. May the Truth prevail - despite their personal attacks, radical agenda, and downright lies.

Yours in Liberty,

Tim Huelskamp

Member of Congress
